Treatment Finished

We did it. The upper arch restorations were delivered in November.

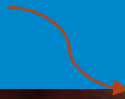

Evaluating the case in the mouth there were a few things I would change – central incisor morphology, cusp orientation on the UL, and some shading character. However, dentistry is a team sport with the MVP being the patient. As long as things fit well, appear to have good function, and are somewhat protected in parafunction then I am satisfied.

The patient was thrilled. He thought it looked amazing. More importantly (to me) he reported it felt terrific.

Trying to catch a smile...

Retracted for all the dentites (looking at you Kaveh).

Let's not forget where we started back in February...
